

BIDDIES PAY HER

MRS. KLAAS OF CLAYE GETS GOOD RETURN FROM HENS.

WALNUTS AND RABBITS

Are Fed Nuts and Fresh Meat, and Like Children, They Clamor For Good Things.

It will perhaps be of interest to poultry raisers of Maryville and Nodaway county to learn of the success that has been made by Mrs. Julius Klaas, living east of Clyde.

Mrs. Klaas did not begin raising chickens with a view of raising fancy poultry, but her success with 165 Leghorn hens during the year 1912 has encouraged her to go into the business the coming year on a much larger scale, and she expects to increase her flock of Leghorns to 400 hens.

During the year 1912, Mrs. Klaas sold $203.56 worth of eggs from her 165 hens, which made an average for the year of $1.23 per hen. Her largest sale was during the month of April, when she realized $30.50 for the month.

The lowest price she received was 14 cents per dozen and the highest price was 39 cents per dozen.

The eggs used in her family of four were not included in her sales. Last August they built a new home and in September put up a new silo, which brought a large number of carpenters and helpers to their home, who were boarded by them, and cut down the sale of her eggs considerably, and those used during these times are not included in her sales.

During the month of January, 1913, Mrs. Klaas gathered sixty-five eggs every day.

Mrs. Klaas has a large roomy chicken house for her flock that is free from draft with a scratch pen or shed built at the one side. During bad weather, instead of letting them out doors in the cold she turned them into the scratch shed, the floor of which she strewed with straw and then threw the feed into this, thus making her chickens hustle for their living and giving them the necessary exercise.

It is a fine sight to watch Mrs. Klaas with her chickens. She opens her chicken house at the same time every morning and feeds them. They crowd around her, some even flying on her shoulder, eating from her hands. Last fall they gathered several wagon loads of walnuts, and during the afternoon she would go out and crack nuts for them for an hour or two at a time. They crowd around her like so many children, pushing one around and scrapping for a shell to pick.

During the winter Mrs. Klaas feeds her chickens fresh rabbits. Her son, Oscar Klaas, goes out hunting for rabbits and brings them in, and after they are skinned she hangs them up on the side of the wall of the scratching shed and they will pick them until the last vestige is gone.

This is how one Nodaway county woman makes the egg business pay by taking care of her hens.

MENTION OF MISS NASH'S BAND.

In the Missouri Notes in Today's Kansas City Times, the Following Was Printed.

What cares Missouri about a place in the new president's cabinet, in view of the probability that Miss Alma Nash and her twenty comely maidens of the Maryville brass band are to furnish the music at the head of the "Suff" contingent in the great parade in Washington?

The Father and Mother of Our Country

A WASHINGTON POEM.

Of Father George and Martha, too,
I'm proud as I can be,
For they were parents of this land,
Of which I'm part, you see.

By Tommy Traddles.

THIS country ought to honor them.
For it's mighty sure I am
That if we'd had no Father George We'd have no Uncle Sam.

The case of Louis Gram vs. Agnes Protzman, a mechanic lien, was continued.

TO TEAR DOWN SECOND STORY.

Mayor Robey to Suggest to City Council to Take Off Second Story at Old City Hall.

Mayor Robey intends to bring before the city council at their regular meeting in March a proposition to tear down the second story of the old city hall building on North Market street, as it is not to be used any more for council meetings. The city has leased the Baker building for all of the city officers, and also as a place for council meetings, so the second story of the city hall is now not being used. Mayor Robey thinks by tearing off the second story of the building that the first story could be made safe, and that it would still be a better place for the fire team and wagon, and also as a city jail.

THE DUTCH PIANIST PLEASES.

The Baltimore Sun Speaks Highly of Paul Van Katwijk's Playing—He Will Be Here Monday Night.

The Baltimore Sun of February 15, 1913, has the following notice of Paul Van Katwijk, who will appear in Maryville Monday evening, at the First M. E. church, to give the first number of the Conservatory lecture course.

"Paul Van Katwijk, an almost unheralded Dutch pianist, was the soloist at the Sixteenth Peabody Artist Recital hall at the Conservatory yesterday afternoon. It was a most interesting occasion. The program, unlike most to which local music lovers have been treated this season, was made up almost exclusively of the works of very modern composers of the French and Scandinavian schools, so that with the exception of some Chopin preludes, eight of them, and a Chopin 'Fantasy,' practically everything was more or less familiar. There was a very curious 'Barcarolle,' by Palagren, a striking group of minor compositions by Sibelius, a very unusual 'Ballade' by Greig, some Debussy, as well as some works by less iconoclastic Frenchmen, such as Faure and Saint Saens.

Mr. Van Katwijk proved to be a player of purely poetic temperament, a romantic interpreter of music that evidently made a special appeal to him. His playing at this recital was principally remarkable for its extreme clarity, its really astonishing color and rhythmic appreciation. He has a keen dynamic sense and uses the pedal with the greatest skill. His tone is very bell-like and remarkably sustained, so that his playing has a ringing quality and is so extremely clear cut and facile as to make an unusually pleasing impression."

NORMALS DEFEATED BENTON

In Game at Normal Gym Friday Night—The Score Was 47 to 25.

After having been defeated twice on the Normal court in the last two years by the Benton high school five of St. Joseph, Coach Moore's green and white quintet got sweet revenge Friday night by decisively trouncing the St. Joseph Normal team. The initial period ended 21 to 9 in Normal's favor.

Captain Vandersloot starred for the locals in the point-getting department. "Van" caged eight field goals and ten free throws. On the defensive, Kirby Taylor twinkled. He held his opponent to a single field goal, and was in on all the team work. Garber played the best game for the visitors, although he didn't keep a very close eye on Vandersloot, his opponent.

Following is the line-up and the summary:

Benton—McDonald and Fish, forwards; Otten, center; Garber and Buasjager, guards.

Normal—Vandersloot and Daise, forwards; Pettit, center; Taylor and McClintock, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Vandersloot 8, Daise 6, Pettit 3, Fish 2, Otten 2, Garber 2, McDonald, Taylor, Free throws, Vandersloot 10 out of 21, McDonald 11 out of 24. One point was awarded the Normal.

In the second game of the evening between the All-Maryville first and second teams, the second sprung a surprise by defeating the firsts by a score of 28 to 24. Owing to the fact that five of the players who participated in the second game also played in the Benton game, the contest was rather slow. Woodward, who took Seymour's place on the first team played a great defensive game, holding Leech to "nary" a field goal.

The line-up:

Firsts—Vandersloot and Eek, forwards; Hoffman, center; Taylor and Wilson, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Daise 5, Vandersloot 5, Hoffman 2, Eek 2, Pettit 2, Taylor, Willson.

FURNISHES FARM LABOR.

Missouri College of Agriculture Regrades Graduates to Have at Least Six Months Farm Experience.

Undoubtedly one of the big problems before Missouri farmers these days is the problem of adequate farm labor. Help is scarce and in many places and cases unreliable. It looks as though at least a partial solution to the problem is at hand.

A recent requirement of the Missouri college of agriculture makes it necessary for every graduate to have at least six months practical farm experience. This requirement will make a large number of bright, energetic, ambitious and dependable young men available to the farmers of this state. These men can begin their services June 1st and will work three months. They will accept as salary whatever they prove to be worth, they are after the experience.

Another class of men that is available now, March 1st, is the short course students. Most of these young men have had practical farm experience and are qualified to take the best of positions. They will accept salaries of from $25.00 per month up, depending on the kind of work and kind of man.

Farmers that can use any of this labor should avail themselves of the opportunity at once by writing to the farm management department, Missouri college of agriculture, Columbia, Missouri.

WANTED SOME ADVICE.

Young Lady Writes Editor Shepherd About Her Love Affair.

In this month's Normal Pragmatist, Frank H. Shepherd, editor of that paper, had printed a letter he received from one of his young lady subscribers, and the letter, together with Editor Shepherd's comment, follows:

Dear Editor: I have taken your paper for some time and like it very much, and since you wrote about so many things I thought, perhaps, you could give me some advice on an affair of the heart. I am a young lady, 29 years old. A few weeks since a young man winked at me and later sent me a post card. I admire him greatly. Do you think he is in love with me, and should I invite him to call on me?

GENEVIEVE. You are altogether too young to let thoughts of love come into your life. You must apply yourself with all your power of concentration to your studies for the next three years. At the end of that time you will have gained your life diploma and will then be in a position to secure a school at a salary that will make it possible for you to think of the tender passion.

As far as the wink of the young man meaning anything, that is only a name that Jimmy Faris has acquired after a great deal of practice, and he was only practicing for future events.

My advice to you is to invite him to call. Invite him soon. Arrange with your mother to have such a dinner as only mother knows how to cook and invite the editor at the same time to act as chaperon. Let it be soon.

(The editor is always willing to advise on matters of this kind. Should any one doubt the genuineness of the above letter we have the original on file in the office.)

WHITE SLAVE BILL PASSED.

The Senate Passed the Craig Bill by Unanimous Vote—Movies Censor Bill Unfavorable.

The senate at Jefferson City Friday afternoon passed the Craig white slave bill by unanimous vote. The measure provides a penalty of from two to twenty years for violation of its provisions.

The measure censuring "movies" which portrays murders, Indian fights, legal executions, divorce and scandals, robberies and prize fights, was reported out unfavorably Friday.

JEFFERSON CITY NEWS.

(Special Correspondence.)

The country newspaper boys are asking that the libel law be amended so that the correction of an error appearing in a purely news article where no opinion is expressed or comment made may mitigate against punitive damages. In the experience of every editor there are cases in which an intentional misstatement of facts appear in the news columns. There is not malice or intent to do injury, but simply an honest error made in giving the news. The editor is always willing when his attention is called to the mistake to make ample correction, and when this is done fully and completely, while it does not release him from the actual damage inflicted, yet it should mitigate against punitive damages. The country newspapers are entitled to consideration, and when their request is fair and right the legislature should grant it.

Missourians would do well to withhold criticism of the general assembly because of its alleged indifference to good road legislation until the close of the session. The truth is, the legislature and the administration are very much alive to the situation and out of the mass of bills introduced some good measures will be formulated and useful laws enacted. It hardly becomes a party whose executive did nothing but talk good roads and veto bills appropriating money to build them to criticize this Democratic legislature for "indifference" on the subject ahead of its final action.

News of Society and Womens' Clubs

D. A. R. Colonial Party.

The Maryville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution gave its first real social function Friday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Thomas, to commemorate Washington's birthday anniversary. The entire house was decorated in flags, large and small, and pictures of George Washington, while in the reception hall a fine large picture of our country's defender was draped with a large silk flag. All the Daughters were in Colonial costume, powdered hair and all, and a view of them after all had gathered was like seeing a picture of 100 years and more ago, or being suddenly taken back to that time for the quality of ladyhood, the charm, dignity and personality of its matrons, the beauty, bewitching grace and winsomeness of its maidens, were not the least bit different. The guests were first asked upstairs, where, after removing wraps, silhouette drawings were made of each one by Miss Mae Corwin and Miss Donna Sisson.

All then descended to the parlors, where they were received by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. E. G. Orear, regent of the D. A. R. chapter. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Orear were delightfully charming in their costumes, Mrs. Thomas being in a prevailing color of pale blue, while Mrs. Orear was in lavender and white, and both wore slippers to match, of course. After all were seated the beautiful D. A. R. ritual was read by Mrs. Orear, the responses by the Daughters, and two songs, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," were sung. The guests returned to the up-stairs living room again, where the silhouettes had been strung on wires around the wall for their view, and each was given a small white hatchet, to which was tied a little red pencil by a red cord, on which to write the names of those whose pictures hung before them. Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Jr., and Mr. Paul Sisson cut for the prize in correctly placing the silhouettes. The prize was a handsome box of candy tied with red, white and blue ribbon, a large bunch of red cherries being confined in the bow.

On returning to the parlors below the guests were seated to witness the dancing of the minuet by the girls of the chapter. As Mrs. E. G. Orear began the music for the only dance that appealed to the stately Washington, eight lovely colonial girls came slowly down the stairway, Miss Cecile Benight and Miss Elise Jackson leading. Miss Benight's gown was of yellow and white, with black bodice and yellow satin slippers. Miss Jackson was in pink and white with slippers to match. The other girls were Miss Brownie Toel, Miss Donna Sisson, Miss Allie Fraser, Miss Julia Tate, Miss Mae Corwin, Miss Jeanette Tate. The dancing of the minuet had been taught them by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Orear. The dancers performed the difficult step with most becoming ease and grace, their beautiful costumes adding much to the gay and festive scene. Miss Sisson's costume was of yellow; Miss Toel's of white with flowered pinnies; Miss Fraser wore a gaily flowered gown; Miss Julia Tate's gown was of pale blue, with pink bodice, and Miss Jeanette Tate's was of pink with pale blue bodice; Miss Mae Corwin wore a pink flowered gown. All wore white lace fichus and satin slippers to match their gowns, which with powdered hair and the tiny patch of court plaster on chin or cheek, to set off the pure and tender whiteness of milady's face, made a perfect copy of a colonial girl. After this was over the guests went upstairs again to an auction. All the packages were done up fancifully and prettily, and contained souvenirs of the evening. Mr. H. R. Hancock making a most satisfactory auctioneer. Returning to the parlors the guests were ushered to the dining room, where Mrs. L. C. Gann served coffee, assisted by "the girls of the minuet." The table was charmingly laid. In the center of the table, upon a cluny lace piece, stood a cherry tree, a tiny hatchet leaning against it, and three silk flags at each side of the tree. The favors were small paper flags in which were candy cherries. The invited guests were Miss Mae Orear, Mr. Paul Sisson, Mr. B. R. Embree, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Toel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fraser, Miss Fannie Hope, Miss Carrie Hopkins, Professor L. M. Eek, Mrs. M. G. Tate, Professor J. E. Cameron, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mr. Will Montgomery, Mr. Fleming Carpenter, Mr. Lieber Holmes, Mr. Louis DeHart, Mr. Joseph Jackson, Jr., Mr. Shepherd Leffler, Mr. E. G. Orear, Dr. D. J. Thomas, Dr. F. M. Martin, Mr. R. C. Benight of St. Joseph; Mr. Curtis Lee Benight, Miss Dora Carpenter, Mrs. C. D. Koch, Miss Martha Koch, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Hancock.

All the daughters of the chapter were present but three, Mrs. J. V. Embree and her daughter, Miss Ethel Embree, and Mrs. Anderson Craig, who is in Jefferson City this winter with Senator Craig for the legislative session. The other members were Mrs. C. T. Bell, Mrs. LeGrand Gann, Miss Orrell Helwig, Miss Katherine Helwig, Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Jr., Mrs. F. M. Martin, Miss Mabel Martin, Mrs. J. A. Ford, Mrs. C. C. Corwin, Miss Mae Corwin, Mrs. J. E. Cameron, Miss Julia Tate, Miss Jeanette Tate, Miss Brownie Toel, Mrs. E. G. Orear, Mrs. D. J. Thomas, Miss Donna Sisson, Miss Allie Fraser, Mrs. R. C. Benight, Miss Elise Jackson, Miss Cecile Benight.

"Young Reliabilities" Entertained.

The Sunday school class of boys of the M. E. church of Ravenwood, taught by Professor L. L. King, and known as "The Young Reliabilities," entertained the class of girls in the same school called "The Willing Workers," and taught by Mrs. A. G. Bentley at a valentine party Thursday evening in the church parlors. The decorations made by the hosts made a good representation of an old fashioned home, with fire place and all. Games and a luncheon were the pastimes. "The Young Reliabilities" are Frank Tebow, Norvel Lyle, Glen Duffy, Morrison Lawson, Harry Frayar, Vell Collinsworth, Cahley Pettigrew, Gladis Horton. Feasted the Basket Ball Team.

Prof. W. A. Rickenbrode and Mrs. Rickenbrode gave a luncheon at their home in West Terrace Place Friday night at the close of the basket ball game at the State Normal gymnasium between the Normal team and the Benton high school team of St. Joseph. Their guests were the members of the Normal team and two other friends. The place cards for the four-course menu were very individual, each guest's card presenting a head photo of himself and an amusing question or two of a personal nature that must be answered.

Plates were laid for Prof. Victor I. Moore, Mr. Fred Vandersloot, Mr. Lona L. Perrin, Mr. Kirby Taylor, Mr. Paul Woodward, Mr. Vern Seymour, Mr. Len Daise, Mr. Ralph McClintock, Prof. L. M. Eek and Mr. John L. Hoffman.

This evening the Benton team of St. Joseph, who played the Normal last night, will meet the high school of this city at the Normal gym at 7:30 o'clock. Although the Bentons met defeat last night the score shows that the game this evening will be very close, and the St. Joseph people will do their best to split even and carry off one victory. The local high school people are optimistic and are expecting to win.

Following the game there will be an indoor track meet, the participants being students of the Normal.

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach,
Coated Tongue or Constipated
Bowels by Morning.

"Turn the rascals out—the headache,
the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul
turn them out tonight and ke
out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy
liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress.
Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste
matter and poison in the intestines
and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear
head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy
liver and bowel action for months.
Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.—Advertisement.

IRON HAND AGAIN TO RULE MEXICO

President Huerta Indicates Rebels Will Not Prosper.

WARNINGS TO GO OUT AT ONCE

Soldiers Will Follow Emissaries to Insurgents If Necessary—Porfirio Diaz
to Come Back From Exile Soon, but Only as Spectator of Future Events.

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—That the new administration in Mexico expects to use the methods of Porfirio Diaz, so far as is possible, in governing the country was made evident in a conversation Provisional President Huerta had with newspaper men.

President Huerta declared that, no matter what the cost be or who the men who paid it, peace would be restored in Mexico. He said it was his ambition that when he left the presidency people would say of him, "He has restored order throughout Mexico,
made safe the investment of money
and rendered secure the lives and interests of all, both foreigners and Mexicans."

Calmly and dispassionately General Huerta outlined his program for the use of the army in restoring and maintaining order. He admitted that in many parts of the republic, where the news of the change in government
had not been well received, all was not in accord with peace. To these sections, he said, he would send emissaries in an attempt to bring about order, or, if necessary, troops would be dispatched
to them to inform the people of the government's desires.

"I want to restore to Mexico that uninterrupted current of riches which is its right," the president continued,
"and to bring about such conditions
in the country that all the diplomats
will feel that their national interests
are secure."

New Revolution Arises.

It is certain that the new administration in Mexico must deal with a new revolution in addition to the remnants of the old one. Three governors of states in the republic formally have refused to recognize Provisional President Huerta and two or three others
are doubtful.

Venustiano Carranza, governor of the state of Coahuila, with 1,200 men,
is working with Emilio and Rosal Madero, brothers of the deposed president; who are at San Pedro. Madero's old home near Saltillo, which is Carranza's base.

Jose Gayou, former governor of Sonora, has telegraphed from Mexicali
to Governor Maytorena of Sonora offering him 3,000 men and 2,000,000
pesos to restore Madero to office. Governor Maytorena has telegraphed the senate and Provisional President Huerta, repudiating the new administration.

The governor of Yucatan, ignorant of the death of Gustavo Madero, has wired him offering the services of 1, 200 men and money to assist in a new revolution.

What will be done with ex-President
Madero has not yet been determined.
Juan Sanchez Azcona, Madero's private secretary, is a prisoner at Puebla. It was reported that he had been shot, but the report proved untrue.

Porfirio Diaz to Return.

General Porfirio Diaz, ex-president of the republic, who has been in exile
in Europe, is coming home. There is not the slightest possibility that he again will mix in the politics of Mexico, but his enforced exile is ended.
Word was received from Paris that within a short time General Diaz will be in his private residence in Cadanza street, an interested spectator of the development of the new regime. It was authoritatively announced that the arrival home of General Diaz will be not later than April 2, the anniversary of the taking of Puebla by his forces in 1867 in the war of French intervention. This day will be celebrated in honor of General Diaz.

EARS CUT OFF BY STOVEPIPE

Surgeons Try to Replace Them on Head of Injured Member of Church.

Monessen, Pa., Feb. 22.—The major portion of the ears of V. A. Burchard,
a prominent churchman of this place,
were cut off by a big stovepipe, which fell over his head.

Mr. Burchard, who was taking a few days' vacation from business, decided that he would rearrange a big stove-pipe which had not been giving satisfaction throughout the winter. While he was stooping the pipe fell over his head.

Mr. Burchard was released from his predicament and his wounds were dressed. Both ears were replaced in the original position, but it is doubtful if the experiment will prove a success, as medical attention was delayed
too long.

MRS. PANKHURST IS HISSED AND CHEERED

Meets With Mixed Reception at Meeting in Chelsea.

London, Feb. 22.—Mrs. Emmeline
Pankhurst, the militant suffragette
who has declared that she was responsible for the dynamite explosion which recently wrecked the home in Surrey
of David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, met with a mixed reception at a meeting in Chelsea town hall under the auspices of the Women's Social and Political union.

When Mrs. Pankhurst appeared on the platform she was greeted with groans, hisses, yells and cheering, and only a large force of police in the hall prevented the hostile section of the audience from attacking her.

When she left the hall Mrs. Pankhurst twitted the authorities for being afraid to take advantage of her assumption of responsibility for blowing up Lloyd-George's house and send her
to jail and declared that short of taking human life the militant suffragettes intended to do everything possible to settle once for all the political status of the women of this country.

WEST COVERED WITH SNOW

White Wet Blanket to a Depth of
From One to Ten Inches.

Omaha, Feb. 22.—A snow and sleet storm extended over the central and middle western states and well north resulted in a total prostration of telegraph and telephone wires.

The snow generally was a heavy
half-sleet affair, which took down
wires in hundreds of places.

A cold north wind caused the snow
to fall in lessened quantities and finally to cease. As a result of the storm
a blanket from one to ten inches in thickness covers Nebraska.

Railroad and grain men do not hesitate to say that the snow that has been general over all Nebraska, most of Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and a greater portion of the south half of South Dakota will be of incalculable value.

U. S. INTERVENES TO SAVE MADERO

Deposed President of Mexico
Must Be Given Fair Trial.

STRICT NEUTRALITY UNBROKEN

New Government Expected to Observe
Rules of Civilization—General Diaz
Once Saved From Death by America's Representations.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Intervention
of the United States government to secure justice, or at least a fair trial
for fallen President Madero of Mexico, as announced by Secretary Knox
at the cabinet meeting, was an unexpected development of the state department policy in regard to that republic. Recently it was announced that there was no intention to depart
from the policy of non-intervention in the Mexican troubles.

It appears, however, that this statement was based upon the natural assumption that the newly established Mexican government would observe the amenities of civilized warfare in its treatment of prisoners of either high or low degree, and when the killing of Gustavo Madero gave ground
for genuine apprehension for the fate of the ex-president it was felt that the time had come to stretch forth a restraining hand.

Diaz's Life Once Saved by U. S.

The administration feels that it has not in any manner departed from its policy of strict neutrality. Its action was purely impersonal and probably would have followed as surely had General Diaz been captured by Madero
and threatened with death without the process of law. The fact is, though not officially admitted, that in an unofficial manner the state department did bring to bear influences which saved
Diaz from death when he was captured by General Beltran at Vera Cruz last fall.

It is believed that the Mexican people themselves, after the heat of combat is over, will be the first to express gratitude to the United States government for preventing the placing of such a blot upon the reputation of their country as would follow what practically would amount to murder
of a deposed president.

It is recalled in some quarters that the action of the administration in the case of Madero is precisely the reverse of that taken forty-six years ago, when President Andrew Johnson refused to intervene to prevent the shooting of the unfortunate Emperor Maximilian, who was by a singular coincidence betrayed by the military leader, General Lopez, who was his main reliance. In that case, however, it is pointed out that Maximilian was in Mexico greatly against the will of the states and he was tried by a legal tribunal in the form of a court martial.

Secretary Knox, with the approval of President Taft, has instructed Ambassador Wilson to convey to Huerta
in diplomatic terms the intimation that the United States would seriously
object to a summary execution or sentence of Madero.

CENTRAL PACIFIC HEARING

Three Points Urged Against Joint Use
of Track in California.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Three reasons why the Southern Pacific company should not be allowed to enter into a contract with the Central Pacific for joint use of the Benicia Short Line between San Francisco and Sacramento were urged by the Western Pacific before the state railway commission.

Under the Sherman anti-trust law,
it was argued, the proposed lease is a contract in restraint of trade.

It is a public policy, it was contended, that no two lines should be allowed to enter into a compact for the benefit of a third.

Lastly, the proposed lease is to run
for 999 years, whereas the state law reads that no such lease may run in California for more than seventy-seven years.

Woman File Petition to Recall Judge.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Perhaps

announcement made here that a recall

paign against Judge Weller was started after he had reduced the bond of a man charged with an offense against a woman. The man ran away.

If the redmen accept they will be pro-

FELT BAD ALL THE TIME

Shellhorn Lady Suffered a Great Deal, But Is All Right Now.

Shellhorn, Ala.—In a letter from this place, Mrs. Carrie May says: "A short time ago, I commenced to have weak spells and headaches. I felt bad all the time, and soon grew so bad I couldn't stay up. THE ELECTIONS OF WASHINGTON

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

Nearly 125 years have elapsed since General George Washington was first elected president of the United States. It is a physical impossibility for any one now living to picture the situation of the country at that time. The constitution had been adopted only after a robust opposition. The colonies had been depleted by the long years of the Revolution and had not much recovered under the loose and inadequate articles of confederation. While political parties had not yet had time to form, there were bitter factional feuds and personal and sectional jealousies.

The 3,000,000 people of the new nation were strung along the Atlantic coast. The railroad and steamship had not yet been thought of, while the other great inventions that have changed the face of the world were far in the future. Electricity was but a scientific curiosity. The steam engine had been invented, but was not yet in general use.

There was no other republic in the world. The revolution that started one in France did not open until the following year. The so-called Dutch republic was ruled by an aristocracy under a hereditary stadtholder. The Swiss cantons were under a loose confederation. Not only was the world without republics, but well nigh without parliaments. Great Britain had a form of parliamentary government, but most other nations were absolute or slightly limited monarchies.

Moreover, there had never been on earth a republic such as our forefathers outlined for us. The so-called Greek and Roman republics were really oligarchies, the mass of the population being slaves. The Italian republics were in some instances a slight advance on these, but even they fell far short of the American ideal. Our proposed form of government was largely an experiment without precedent anywhere in the world's history. The division of powers between the federal government and the states and the subdivision into co-ordinate departments of executive, legislative and judicial were new and untried departures.

It was an adventure on such an unknown political sea that Washington and the first congress elected with him were called upon to undertake. There were still large and influential elements grumbling about the constitution. One or two colonies had failed to ratify, and Rhode Island continued in that attitude. Washington was unflinchingly reluctant to embark on the task of leading the new government. He had retired from public life and had planned to spend his declining years on his Mount Vernon farm. The people of the whole country turned to him with one accord, however, and it was impossible for him to resist.

No candidates were nominated for president in those days, the presidential electors being left absolutely free to choose. These electors were chosen at the same time as the members of the new congress at the popular election in the fall of 1788. They afterward met in their several state capitals and cast every vote for Washington.

The inaugural ceremonies took place in New York. Congress was slow in assembling, and by the time it had a quorum to canvass the vote it was March 4. A messenger was immediately dispatched to notify the president elect of the vote, and he reached Mount Vernon on the 14th. On the 16th Washington wrote in his diary:

"About 10 o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life and domestic felicity and, with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express, set out for New York."

Practically every step of the way it was a triumphal procession. If his own sensations were painful those of the country were quite the opposite. Scarcely had he got outside of his own private estate than the processions and feasting began. Every child knows the story of that flower strewn journey and the inauguration that followed.

One of the prettiest displays was at Trenton. Here, where the great American general had achieved one of the most brilliant successes of the war, the women of New Jersey had erected a triumphal arch, bearing this inscription: "The Defender of the Mothers Will Be the Protector of the Daughters." Along the way mothers and daughters, dressed in white, strewed flowers in the path and sang a song written for the occasion.

The inauguration occurred on Thursday, April 13, the oath being administered by Chancellor Livingston on the outside balcony of the Federal hall.

WASHINGTON TAKING OATH OF OFFICE.

Broad and Wall streets, New York. The United States treasury now occupies this site, and on the broad portico of the building, at the exact spot where the Father of His Country took the oath as the first president, there now stands a noble statue of him. Within a stone's throw is the famous New York Stock Exchange.

The president was almost as reluctant to enter a second term as he had been the first. Jefferson, his secretary of state, and Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, joined in urging him to accept. Widely as the two were divided personally and politically, they were united on this point.

One additional embarrassment at about this time occurred in the death of a nephew, George A. Washington, who had been left in charge at Mount Vernon. The president feared that this would "cause my private concerns to suffer very much."

Nevertheless he accepted. In the election he received every vote of the electoral college, as before. By this time the seat of government had been moved to Philadelphia, where the second inaugural occurred.

During the second administration war was declared between England and France, and the president and his advisers were accused of siding with England. This was denounced by friends of France as the rankest ingratitude, in view of the services rendered by France to the American revolutionists. Out of this situation grew the bitter attacks ever made on the first president.

RAVENWOOD.

The long looked for snow has come at last, and if the present (Friday noon) indications foretell the future results, we may yet have a winter of no small proportions. The snow will be fine on wheat and might improve the health of the country. Health is better among the small children, but there is a gripe on the older people, but no fatalities in this town or immediate vicinity.

We are expecting a building boom in Ravenwood when spring opens. J. J. Smith will put up a brick north of the postoffice, forty-eight foot front, and Roy Wells will put up a brick twenty-four foot front. Also several good dwellings are spoken of. W. A. Conn will change his dwelling from a one to a three-story. The first will be underground and the third above the present.

I hear of several Democrats that are willing to serve as township officials, but the Republicans are still very quiet.

Gullford News Items.

The farmers around the country of Gullford were all happy Friday over the beautiful snowfall. Not a grumble was heard among them and they spent their time figuring out how big the wheat crop would be and how much they thought they were going to clear from it, counting out expenses and so on. Oh, Friday was a great day here. It was a red letter day.

Mrs. W. H. Miller is recovering from a week's illness.

Miss Helene Young, who is attending the State Normal, went to Creston Saturday to visit over Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Young.

Despite this temporary cloud, Washington was yet held in such esteem by the American people that he was being urged to accept a third term. He felt, however, that he had sacrificed enough and was determined to retire to a well earned repose at Mount Vernon. It was at this time that he issued his celebrated farewell address, which was published in the Philadelphia Advertiser in September, 1796.

While this was the beginning of the powerful tradition against a third term in the presidency, it is but just to say that Washington himself made no arguments against a third term. He explained that his reasons for withdrawing were personal. He would have taken such a step earlier, but was convinced that it would have been against public policy. Now, however, that difficulty had been removed, Washington says:

"I rejoice that the state of your concerns, external as well as internal, no longer renders the pursuit of inclination incompatible with the sentiment of duty or propriety and am persuaded, whatever partiality may be retained for my services, that in the present circumstances of our country you will not disapprove of my determination to retire."

As though the first president had a prophetic glimpse of the future, the burden of the farewell address was an argument for union and a warning against the perils of partisan division and passion. In the memorable closing paragraph he said:

"Though in reviewing the incidents of my administration I am unconscious of intentional error, I am nevertheless too sensible of my defects not to think it probable that I have committed many errors. Whatever they may be, I fervently beseech the Almighty to avert or mitigate the evils to which they may tend. I shall also carry with me the hope that my country will never cease to view them with indulgence and that, after forty-five years of my life dedicated to its service with upright zeal, the faults of incompetent abilities will be consigned to oblivion, as myself must soon be to the mansions of rest."

Both his country and the world have certainly carried out this wish.

THE SHORTEST INAUGURAL.

Washington's Second Address Only 135 Words Long.

The first president was never given to much speaking. His first inaugural was, however, of average length. This was delivered in New York at the very beginning of our national life under the constitution, and the occasion demanded a more extended utterance than the Father of His Country was wont to give. The second inaugural, delivered four years later in Philadelphia, was more in line with his custom and was exceedingly brief, only 135 words long, in fact. It is believed to be the shortest ever delivered by an elected president. The address follows in full:

"Fellow Citizens—I am again called upon by the voice of my country to execute the functions of its chief magistrate. When the occasion proper for it shall arrive I shall endeavor to express the high sense I entertain of this distinguished honor and of the confidence which has been reposed in me by the people of united America.

"Previous to the execution of any official act of the president the constitution requires an oath of office. This oath I am now about to take and in your presence. That if it shall be found during my administration of the government I have in any instance violated willingly or knowingly the injunctions thereof I may (besides incurring constitutional punishment) be subject to the upbraidings of all who are now witnesses of the present solemn ceremony."

"GRAIN FIRM" PLANS TO WED

Announcement Reveals St. Louis

"Company" is a Woman.

TRADERS GET A SURPRISE.

St. Louis, Feb. 22.—The A. E. Haas Grain company is going to be married. This was the announcement that startled traders on the Merchants' exchange. The news was even more surprising because most of the traders had never known the A. E. Haas Grain company was a dark haired young woman of twenty-five years. The firm's out of town customers were also ignorant of this fact.

The formal announcement stated that Miss Alma E. Haas of 5948 Berlin avenue would be married at an early date to Dr. Maurice Vanderback of St. Louis, Ill.

The date of the marriage will depend on the time it takes Miss Haas to dispose of the business of the A. E. Haas Grain company, which she has conducted for a year and a half, assisted by a large force of clerks and other employees. The firm's accounts include customers throughout the central west and south, and in Cuba and Mexico.

For five years Miss Haas was employed successively as stenographer, bookkeeper and cashier in the office of the F. P. Brockman Grain company. Brockman died in November, 1911, and Miss Haas bought the business with her savings. She could not join the Merchants' exchange, as exchange rules rigidly bar women from the floor in business hours. She conducted the business on the floor through men agents.

STEP NEARER GOOD ROADS

Missouri House Sends Highway Bill to Engrossment.

Jefferson City, Feb. 22.—The house sent to engrossment the Major good road bill, which provides for the creation of a state highway department, headed by a highway commissioner, with a deputy commissioner, an engineer, under him. The bill was lost on the first vote, but on a roll call the administration mustered enough votes to carry it.

The debate over the bill covered the entire subject of why Missouri does not have better roads. It evidenced a general desire from nearly every member, except some from the Ozark hills, for the state to take an active and energetic hand in bringing about better highways, but it also demonstrated that nearly every member had his own idea how the state should go about obtaining better highways.

A terrific arraignment of the justice of the peace court system in St. Louis and Kansas City was made by Senator Phillips in arguing before a committee for a municipal courts bill for St. Louis. "A large percentage of the St. Louis justices are damned crooks," Senator Phillips said.

Senator Phillips told how juries were fixed in the justice courts, and said persons attached to them had offered to fix juries for him.

Attorneys in Hyde Trial Wrangle.

Kansas City, Feb. 22.—The bitterest wrangle of the third trial of B. Clarke Hyde for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope took place when attorneys for the defense complained that they had been denied the right to examine the Swope viscera through their own experts. John Lucas of the defense counsel made the assertion that the viscera had been "tampered with." A proposition made by Prosecutor Jacobs that the viscera be submitted for examination to a commission of experts to be appointed by the court was rejected by the defense after the court had offered to appoint such a commission.

BIDDIES PAY HER

MRS. KLAAS OF CLYDE GETS GOOD RETURN FROM HENS.

WALNUTS AND RABBITS

Are Fed Nuts and Fresh Meat, and Like Children, They Clamor For Good Things.

It will perhaps be of interest to poultry raisers of Maryville and Nodaway county to learn of the success that has been made by Mrs. Julius Klaas, living east of Clyde.

Mrs. Klaas did not begin raising chickens with a view of raising fancy poultry, but her success with 165 Leghorn hens during the year 1912 has encouraged her to go into the business the coming year on a much larger scale, and she expects to increase her flock of Leghorns to 400 hens.

During the year 1912, Mrs. Klaas sold $203.56 worth of eggs from her 165 hens, which made an average for the year of $1.23 per hen. Her largest sale was during the month of April, when she realized $30.50 for the month.

The lowest price she received was 14 cents per dozen and the highest price was 39 cents per dozen.

The eggs used in her family of four were not included in her sales. Last August they built a new home and in September put up a new silo, which brought a large number of carpenters and helpers to their home, who were boarded by them, and cut down the sale of her eggs considerably, and those used during these times are not included in her sales.

During the month of January, 1913, Mrs. Klaas gathered sixty-five eggs every day.

Mrs. Klaas has a large roomy chicken house for her flock that is free from draft with a scratch pen or shed built at the one side. During bad weather, instead of letting them out doors in the cold she turned them into the scratch shed, the floor of which she strewed with straw and then threw the feed into this, thus making her chickens hustle for their living and giving them the necessary exercise.

It is a fine sight to watch Mrs. Klaas with her chickens. She opens her chicken house at the same time every morning and feeds them. They crowd around her, some even flying on her shoulder, eating from her hands. Last fall they gathered several wagon loads of walnuts, and during the afternoon she would go out and crack nuts for them for an hour or two at a time. They crowd around her like so many children, pushing one around and scrapping for a shell to pick.

During the winter Mrs. Klaas feeds her chickens fresh rabbits. Her son, Oscar Klaas, goes out hunting for rabbits and brings them in, and after they are skinned she hangs them up on the side of the wall of the scratching shed and they will pick them until the last vestige is gone.

This is how one Nodaway county woman makes the egg business pay by taking care of her hens.

For they were parents of this land,

NO COURT TODAY

BEING WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY, CIRCUIT COURT ADJOURNED.

THE JURY DISAGREED

In the Allen Brothers-Herndon Case—Gusken of Parnell Fined Twenty-Five Dollars.

Saturday being Washington's birthday, no session of the circuit court was held.

Three persons who were indicted by the recent grand jury appeared in court last Friday afternoon. Two of them, Bruce Johnson and Robert Rice, charged with gaming, pleaded not guilty, and each gave bail for $200, John Kane going on both bonds. Frank Gusken of Parnell, also charged with gaming, pleaded guilty and was fined $25, which he paid.

The case of Louis Gram vs. Agnes Protzman, a mechanic lien, was continued.

The jury in the case of Allen Bros. vs. James Herndon, T. W. Costello, Anna Hotchkiss and Belle Williams, which was on trial Friday, was unable to agree and were discharged by the court. The suit was over a $1,600 commission fee which Allen Bros. claimed was due them from Herndon and the other defendants, who were stockholders in the Maryville Mercantile Co.

The case of Bruce and Robert Rice was set for Monday, March 3.

TO TEAR DOWN SECOND STORY.

Mayor Robey to Suggest to City Council to Take Off Second Story at Old City Hall.

Mayor Robey intends to bring before the city council at their regular meeting in March a proposition to tear down the second story of the old city hall building on North Market street, as it is not to be used any more for council meetings. The city has leased the Baker building for all of the city officers, and also as a place for council meetings, so the second story of the city hall is now not being used. Mayor Robey thinks by tearing off the second story of the building that the first story could be made safe, and that it would still be a better place for the fire team and wagon, and also as a city jail.

THE DUTCH PIANIST PLEASURES.

The Baltimore Sun Speaks Highly of Paul Van Katwijk's Playing—He Will Be Here Monday Night.

The Baltimore Sun of February 15, 1913, has the following notice of Paul Van Katwijk, who will appear in Maryville Monday evening, at the First M. E. church, to give the first number of the Conservatory lecture course.

"Paul Van Katwijk, an almost unheralded Dutch pianist, was the soloist at the Sixteenth Peabody Artist Recital hall at the Conservatory yesterday afternoon. It was a most interesting occasion. The program, unlike most to which local music lovers have been treated this season, was made up almost exclusively of the works of very modern composers of the French and Scandinavian schools, so that with the exception of some Chopin preludes, eight of them, and a Chopin 'Fantasy,' practically everything was more or less unfamiliar. There was a very curious 'Barcarolle,' by Palagren, a striking group of minor compositions by Sibelius, a very unusual 'Ballade' by Greig, some Debussy, as well as some works by less iconoclastic Frenchmen, such as Faure and Saint Saens.

Mr. Van Katwijk proved to be a player of purely poetic temperament, a romantic interpreter of music that evidently made a special appeal to him. His playing at this recital was principally remarkable for its extreme clarity, its really astonishing color and rhythmic appreciation. He has a keen dynamic sense and uses the pedal with the greatest skill. His tone is very bell-like and remarkably sustained, so that his playing has a ringing quality and is so extremely clear cut and facile as to make an unusually pleasing impression."

No high school requirement is made for applicants for a third grade certificate. No high school requirement is made for persons who held a certificate September 1, 1912.

NORMALS DEFEATED BENTON

In Game at Normal Gym Friday Night—The Score Was 47 to 25.

After having been defeated twice on the Normal court in the last two years by the Benton high school five of St. Joseph, Coach Moore's green and white quintet got sweet revenge Friday night by decisively trouncing the St. Joseph highs by a score of 47 to 25. Captain Vandersloot of the Normals started the scoring in the first few moments of play with a field goal, and he followed almost immediately with another. Normal counted nine points before Benton registered, and the final outcome of the game was never in doubt. The contest, however, was by no means uninteresting, both teams displaying excellent team work. The initial period ended 21 to 9 in Normal's favor.

Captain Vandersloot starred for the locals in the point-getting department. "Van" caged eight field goals and ten free throws. On the defensive, Kirby Taylor twinkled. He held his opponent to a single field goal, and was in on all the team work. Garber played the best game for the visitors, although he didn't keep a very close eye on Vandersloot, his opponent.

Following is the line-up and the summary:

Benton—McDonald and Fish, forwards; Otten, center; Garber and Busa, guards.

Normal—Vandersloot and Daise, forwards; Perrin, center; Taylor and McClintock, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Vandersloot 8, Daise 6, Perrin 3, Fish 2, Otten 2, Garber 2, McDonald, Taylor. Free throws, Vandersloot 10 out of 21, McDonald 11 out of 24. One point was awarded the Normal.

In the second game of the evening between the All-Maryville first and second teams, the seconds sprung a surprise by defeating the firsts by a score of 28 to 24. Owing to the fact that five of the players who participated in the second game also played in the Benton game, the contest was rather slow. Woodward, who took Seymour's place on the first team played a great defensive game, holding Leech to "nary" a field goal.

The line-up:

Firsts—Vandersloot and Eek, forwards; Hoffman, center; Taylor and Wilson, guards.

Summary—Field goals, Daise 5, Vandersloot 5, Hoffman 2, Eek 2, Perrin 2, Taylor, Willson.

FURNISHES FARM LABOR.

Missouri College of Agriculture Requires Graduates to Have at Least Six Months Farm Experience.

Undoubtedly one of the big problems
before Missouri farmers these days is
the problem of adequate farm labor.
Help is scarce and in many places and cases unreliable. It looks as though at least a partial solution to the problem is at hand.

A recent requirement of the Missouri college of agriculture makes it necessary for every graduate to have at least six months practical farm experience. This requirement will make a large number of bright, energetic,
ambitious and dependable young men
available to the farmers of this state.
These men can begin their services
June 1st and will work three months.
They will accept as salary whatever they prove to be worth, they are after the experience.

Another class of men that is available now, March 1st, is the short course students. Most of these young men have had practical farm experience and are qualified to take the best of positions. They will accept salaries of from $25.00 per month up, depending on the kind of work and kind of man.

Farmers that can use any of this labor should avail themselves of the opportunity at once by writing to the Farm management department, Missouri college of agriculture, Columbia, Missouri.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

Mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell
and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescription from reputable physicians, as the damage
they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally,
acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J.

WANTED SOME ADVICE.

Young Lady Writes Editor Shepherd
About Her Love Affair.

In this month's Normal Pragmatist,
Frank H. Shepherd, editor of that paper, had printed a letter he received from one of his young lady subscribers,
and the letter, together with Editor
Shepherd's comment, follows:

Dear Editor: I have taken your paper for some time and like it very much, and since you wrote about so many things I thought, perhaps, you could give me some advice on an affair of the heart. I am a young lady, 29 years old. A few weeks since a young man winked at me and later sent me a post card. I admire him greatly. Do you think he is in love with me, and should I invite him to call on me?
GENEVIEVE.

Dear Genevieve: You are altogether too young to let thoughts of love
come into your life. You must apply yourself with all your power of concentration to your studies for the next three years. At the end of that time
you will have gained your life diploma and will then be in a position
to secure a school at a salary that will make it possible for you to think of the tender passion.

As far as the wink of the young man
meaning anything, that is only a naïf
that Jimmy Faris has acquired after a great deal of practice, and he was only practicing for future events.

My advice to you is to invite him to call. Invite him soon. Arrange with your mother to have such a dinner as only mother knows how to cook and invite the editor at the same time to act as chaperon. Let it be soon.

(The editor is always willing to advise on matters of this kind. Should any one doubt the genuineness of the above letter we have the original oc-file in the office.)

WHITE SLAVE BILL PASSED.

The Senate Passed the Craig Bill by Unanimous Vote—Movies Censor
Bill Unfavorable.

The senate at Jefferson City Friday afternoon passed the Craig white slave bill by unanimous vote. The measure provides a penalty of from two to twenty years for violation of its provisions.

The measure censoring "movies"
which portrays murders, Indian fights,
legal executions, divorce and scandals,
robberies and prize fights, was reported out unfavorably Friday.

JEFFERSON CITY NEWS.

(Special Correspondence.)
The country newspaper boys are asking that the libel law be amended
so that the correction of an error appearing in a purely news article which no opinion is expressed or comment
made may mitigate against punitive damages. In the experience of every editor there are cases in which an intentional misstatement of facts appear in the news columns. There is not malice or intent to do injury, but simply an honest error made in giving the news. The editor is always willing when his attention is called to the mistake to make ample correction, and
when this is done fully and completely,
while it does not release him from the actual damage inflicted, yet it should mitigate against punitive damages. The country newspapers are entitled to consideration, and when their request
is fair and right the legislature should grant it.

Missourians would do well to withhold criticism of the general assembly
because of its alleged indifference to good road legislation until the close of the session. The truth is, the legislature and the administration are very much alive to the situation and out of the mass of bills introduced some good measures will be formulated and useful laws enacted. It hardly becomes a party whose executive did nothing
but talk good roads and veto bills appropriating money to build them to criticize this Democratic legislature for "indifference" on the subject ahead
of its final action.

News of Society and Womens' Clubs

D. A. R. Colonial Party.

The Maryville chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution gave its first real social function Friday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. D.
J. Thomas, to commemorate Washington's birthday anniversary. The entire house was decorated in flags, large and small, and pictures of George Washington, while in the reception
hall a fine large picture of our country's defender was draped with a large silk flag. All the Daughters were in Colonial costume, powdered hair and all, and a view of them after all had gathered was like seeing a picture of 100 years and more ago, or being suddenly taken back to that time for the quality of ladyhood, the charm, dignity
and personality of its matrons, the beauty, bewitching grace and winsomeness of its maidens, were not the least bit different. The guests were first asked upstairs, where, after removing wraps, silhouette drawings were made of each one by Miss Mae Corwin and Miss Donna Sisson.

All then descended to the parlors,
where they were received by Dr. and Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. E. G. Oread, regent of the D. A. R. chapter. Mrs.
Thomas and Mrs. Oread were deligh-tfully charming in their costumes, Mrs.
Thomas being in a prevailing color of pale blue, while Mrs. Oread was in lavender and white, and both wore slippers to match, of course. After all were seated the beautiful D. A. R. ritual was read by Mrs. Oread, the responses by the Daughters, and two songs, "America" and "The Star Spangled Banner," were sung. The guests returned to the up-stairs living room
again, where the silhouettes had been strung on wires around the wall for their view, and each was given a small white hothouse, to which was tied a little red pencil by a red cord, on which to write the names of those whose pictures hung before them. Mrs. Joseph Jackson, Jr., and Mr. Paul Sisson cut for the prize in correctly placing the silhouettes. The prize was a handsome box of candy tied with red, white and blue ribbon, a large bunch of red cherries being confined in the box.
On returning to the parlors below
the guests were seated to witness the dancing of the minuet by the girls of the chapter. As Mrs. E. G. Oread began the music for the only dance that appealed to the stately Washington
eight lovely colonial girls came slowly down the stairway, Miss Cecile Ben-night and Miss Elise Jackson leading.
Miss Benight's gown was of yellow and white, with black bodice and yellow satin slippers. Miss Jackson was in pink and white with slippers to match. The other girls were Miss Brownie Toel, Miss Donna Sisson,
Miss Allie Fraser, Miss Julia Tate,
Miss Mae Corwin, Miss Jeanette Tate.
The dancing of the minuet had been taught them by Mrs. Thomas and Mrs.
Oread. The dancers performed the difficult step with most becoming ease
and grace, their beautiful costumes
adding much to the gay and festive scene. Miss Sisson's costume was of yellow; Miss Toel's of white with flowered pinnies; Miss Fraser wore a gaily flowered gown; Miss Julia Tate's gown was of pale blue, with pink bodice, and Miss Jeanette Tate's
was of pink with pale blue bodice;
Miss Mae Corwin wore a pink flowered gown. All wore white lace fleecies and satin slippers to match their gowns,
which with powdered hair and the tiny patch of court plaster on chin or cheek, to set off the pure and tender whiteness of milady's face, made a perfect copy of a colonial girl. After this was over the guests went upstairs
again to an auction. All the packages
were done up fancifully and prettily,
and contained souvenirs of the evening. Mr. H. R. Hancock making a most satisfactory auctioneer. Returning to the parlors the guests were ushered
to the dining room, where Mrs. L. C.
Gann served coffee, assisted by "the girls of the minuet." The table was charmingly laid. In the center of the table, on a chintz lace piece, stood a cherry tree, a tiny hatchet leaning against it, and three silk flags at each side of the tree. The favors were small paper flags in which were candy cherries. The invited guests were Miss Mae Oread, Mr. Paul Sisson,
Mr. B. R. Embree, Mr. and Mrs.
J. W. Toel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fraser,
Miss Fannie Hope, Miss Carrie Hopkins, Professor L. M. Eck, Mrs. M. G.
Tate, Professor J. E. Cameron, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Jackson, Mr. Will Montgomery, Mr. Fleming Carpenter, Mr.

Thomas, Dr. F. M. Martin, Mr. R. C.
Benight of St. Joseph; Mr. Curtis Lee
Benight, Miss Dora Carpenter, Mrs. C.
D. Koch, Miss Martha Koch, Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Robinson and Mr. and were present but three, Mrs. J. V. Em-

ALL YOU NEED IS A CASCARET TONIGHT

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach,
Coated Tongue or Constipated
Bowels by Morning.

Turn the rascals out—the headache, the biliousness, the indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul breath—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse and regulate your stomach; remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and that misery-making gas; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the intestines and bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach and clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.—Advertisement.

IRON HAND AGAIN TO RULE MEXICO

President Huerta Indicates Rebels Will Not Prosper.

WARNINGS TO GO OUT AT ONCE

Soldiers Will Follow Emissaries to Insurgents If Necessary—Porfirio Diaz to Come Back From Exile Soon, but Only as Spectator of Future Events.

Mexico City, Feb. 22.—That the new administration in Mexico expects to use the methods of Porfirio Diaz, so far as is possible, in governing the country was made evident in a conversation Provisional President Huerta had with newspaper men.

President Huerta declared that, no matter what the cost be or who the men who paid it, peace would be restored in Mexico. He said it was his ambition that when he left the presidency people would say of him, "He has restored order throughout Mexico, made safe the investment of money and rendered secure the lives and interests of all, both foreigners and Mexicans."

Calmly and dispassionately General Huerta outlined his program for the use of the army in restoring and maintaining order. He admitted that in many parts of the republic, where the news of the change in government had not been well received, all was not in accord with peace. To these sections, he said, he would send emissaries in an attempt to bring about order, or, if necessary, troops would be dispatched to them to inform the people of the government's desires.

"I want to restore to Mexico that uninterrupted current of riches which is its rights," the president continued, "and to bring about such conditions in the country that all the diplomats will feel that their national interests are secure."

New Revolution Arises.

It is certain that the new administration in Mexico must deal with a new revolution in addition to the remnants of the old one. Three governors of states in the republic formally have refused to recognize Provisional President Huerta and two or three others are doubtful.

Venustiano Carranza, governor of the state of Coahuila, with 1,200 men, is working with Emilio and Roaul Madero, brothers of the deposed president, who are at San Pedro, Madero's old home near Saltillo, which is Carranza's base.

Jose Gayou, former governor of Sonora, has telegraphed from Mexico to Governor Maytorena of Sonora offering him 3,000 men and 2,000,000 pesos to restore Madero to office. Governor Maytorena has telegraphed the senate and Provisional President Huerta, repudiating the new administration.

The governor of Yucatan, ignorant of the death of Gustavo Madero, has wired him offering the services of 1,200 men and money to assist in a new revolution.

What will be done with ex-President Madero has not yet been determined. Juan Sanchez Azcona, Madero's private secretary, is a prisoner at Puebla. It was reported that he had been shot, but the report proved untrue.

Porfirio Diaz to Return.

General Porfirio Diaz, ex-president of the republic, who has been in exile in Europe, is coming home. There is not the slightest possibility that he again will mix in the politics of Mexico, but his enforced exile is ended. Word was received from Paris that within a short time General Diaz will be in his private residence in Cadena street, an interested spectator of the development of the new regime. It was authoritatively announced that the arrival home of General Diaz will be not later than April 2, the anniversary of the taking of Puebla by his forces in 1867 in the war of French intervention. This day will be celebrated in honor of General Diaz.

EARS CUT OFF BY STOVEPIPE

Surgeons Try to Replace Them on Head of Injured Member of Church.

Monessen, Pa., Feb. 22.—The major portion of the ears of V. A. Burchard, a prominent churchman of this place, were cut off by a big stovepipe, which fell over his head.

Mr. Burchard, who was taking a few days' vacation from business, decided that he would rearrange a big stovepipe which had not been giving satisfaction throughout the winter. While he was stooping the pipe fell over his head.

Mr. Burchard was released from his predicament and his wounds were dressed. Both ears were replaced in the original position, but it is doubtful if the experiment will prove a success, as medical attention was delayed too long.

MRS. PANKHURST IS HISSED AND CHEERED

Meets With Mixed Reception at Meeting in Chelsea.

London, Feb. 22.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant suffragette who has declared that she was responsible for the dynamite explosion which recently wrecked the home in Surrey of David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer, met with a mixed reception at a meeting in Chelsea town hall under the auspices of the Women's Social and Political Union.

When Mrs. Pankhurst appeared on the platform she was greeted with groans, hisses, yells and cheering, and only a large force of police in the hall prevented the hostile section of the audience from attacking her.

When she left the hall Mrs. Pankhurst twitted the authorities for being afraid to take advantage of her assumption of responsibility for blowing up Lloyd-George's house and send her to jail and declared that short of taking human life the militant suffragettes intended to do everything possible to settle once for all the political status of the women of this country.

WEST COVERED WITH SNOW

White Wet Blanket to a Depth of
From One to Ten Inches.

Omaha, Feb. 22.—A snow and sleet storm extended over the central and middle western states and well high resulted in a total prostration of telegraph and telephone wires.

The snow generally was a heavy half-sleet affair, which took down wires in hundreds of places.

A cold north wind caused the snow to fall in lessened quantities and finally to cease. As a result of the storm a blanket from one to ten inches in thickness covers Nebraska.

Railroad and grain men do not hesitate to say that the snow that has been general over all Nebraska, most of Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and a greater portion of the south half of South Dakota will be of incalculable value.

Must Pay Fine or Go to Jail.

Denver, Feb. 22.—Miss Anna Lewis, spiritualist and fortune teller, who, it is alleged, by her advice to one of her patrons, Carrie Haviland, to have caused the latter to excavate an acre corn field and raise a large barn on a farm near Council Bluffs, Ia., in search of long lost treasure, was ordered to pay a fine of $25 by County Judge Hood, or stand committed to jail.

Hayre de Grace, Md., Feb. 22.—With slightly depleted ranks, "General" Rosalie Jones' little band of suffrage pilgrims straggled into Hayre de Grace after a march over the worst and muddiest roads the "army" has encountered since it started last week to march to Washington.

U. S. INTERVENES TO SAVE MADERO

Deposed President of Mexico
Must Be Given Fair Trial.

STRICT NEUTRALITY UNBROKEN

New Government Expected to Observe
Rules of Civilization—General Diaz
Once Saved From Death by America's Representations.

Washington, Feb. 22.—Intervention of the United States government to secure justice, or at least a fair trial for fallen President Madero of Mexico, as announced by Secretary Knox at the cabinet meeting, was an unexpected development of the state department policy in regard to that republic. Recently it was announced that there was no intention to depart from the policy of non-intervention in the Mexican troubles.

It appears, however, that this statement was based upon the natural assumption that the newly established Mexican government would observe the amenities of civilized warfare in its treatment of prisoners of either high or low degree, and when the killing of Gustavo Madero gave ground for genuine apprehension for the fate of the ex-president it was felt that the time had come to stretch forth a restraining hand.

Diaz's Life Once Saved by U. S.

The administration feels that it has not in any manner departed from its policy of strict neutrality. Its action was purely impersonal and probably would have followed as surely had General Diaz been captured by Madero and threatened with death without the process of law. The fact is, though not officially admitted, that in an unofficial manner the state department did bring to bear influences which saved Diaz from death when he was captured by General Beltran at Vera Cruz last fall.

It is believed that the Mexican people themselves, after the heat of combat is over, will be the first to express gratitude to the United States government for preventing the placing of such a blot upon the reputation of their country as would follow what practically would amount to murder of a deposed president.

It is recalled in some quarters that the action of the administration in the case of Madero is precisely the reverse of that taken forty-six years ago, when President Andrew Johnson refused to intervene to prevent the shooting of the unfortunate Emperor Maximilian, who was by a singular coincidence betrayed by the military leader, General Lopez, who was his main reliance. In that case, however, it is pointed out that Maximilian was in Mexico greatly against the will of the states and he was tried by a legal tribunal in the form of a court martial. Secretary Knox, with the approval of President Taft, has instructed Ambassador Wilson to convey to Huerta in diplomatic terms the intimation that the United States would seriously object to a summary execution or sentence of Madero.

CENTRAL PACIFIC HEARING

of Track in California.

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Three reasons why the Southern Pacific company should not be allowed to enter into a contract with the Central Pacific for joint use of the Benicia Short Line between San Francisco and Sacramento were urged by the Western Pacific before the state railway commission.

Under the Sherman anti-trust law, it was argued, the proposed lease is a contract in restraint of trade.

It is a public policy, it was contended, that no two lines should be allowed to enter into a compact for the benefit of a third.

Lastly, the proposed lease is to run for 999 years, whereas the state law reads that no such lease may run in California for more than seventy-seven years.

Woman File Petition to Recall Judge

San Francisco, Feb. 22.—Perhaps the first instance of judicial recall election, engineered almost entirely by women, is expected to follow the announcement made here that a recall petition has been filed against Police Judge Charles E. Weller. The campaign against Judge Weller was started after he had reduced the bond of a man charged with an offense against a woman. The man ran away.

THE ELECTIONS OF WASHINGTON

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

N EARLY 125 years have elapsed since General George Washington was first elected president of the United States. It is a physical impossibility for any one now living to picture the situation of the country at that time. The constitution had been adopted only after a long and arduous struggle. The colonies had been depleted by the long years of the Revolution and had not much recovered under the loose and inadequate articles of confederation. While political parties had not yet had time to form, there were bitter factional feuds and personal and sectional jealousies.

The 3,000,000 people of the new nation were strung along the Atlantic coast. The railroad and steamship had not yet been thought of, while the other great inventions that have changed the face of the world were far in the future. Electricity was but a scientific curiosity. The steam engine had been invented, but was not yet in general use.

There was no other republic in the world. The revolution that started one in France did not open until the following year. The so-called Dutch republic was ruled by an aristocracy under a hereditary stadtholder. The Swiss cantons were under a loose confederation. Not only was the world without republics, but well nigh without parliaments. Great Britain had a form of parliamentary government, but most other nations were absolute or slightly limited monarchies.

Moreover, there had never been on earth a republic such as our forefathers outlined for us. The so-called Greek and Roman republics were really oligarchies, the mass of the population being slaves. The Italian republics were in some instances a slight advance on these, but even they fell far short of the American ideal. Our proposed form of government was largely an experiment without precedent anywhere in the world's history. The division of powers between the federal government and the states and the subdivision into co-ordinate departments of executive, legislative and judicial were new and untried departures.

It was an adventure on such an unknown political sea that Washington and the first congress elected with him were called upon to undertake. There were still large and influential elements grumbling about the constitution. One or two colonies had failed to ratify, and Rhode Island continued in that attitude. Washington was unflinchingly reluctant to embark on the task of leading the new government. He had retired from public life and had planned to spend his declining years on his Mount Vernon farm. The people of the whole country turned to him with one accord, however, and it was impossible for him to resist.

No candidates were nominated for president in those days, the presidential electors being left absolutely free to choose. These electors were chosen at the same time as the members of the new congress at the popular election in the fall of 1788. They afterward met in their several state capitals and cast every vote for Washington.

The inaugural ceremonies took place in New York. Congress was slow in assembling, and by the time it had a quorum to canvass the vote it was March 6. A messenger was immediately dispatched to notify the president elect of the vote, and he reached Mount Vernon on the 14th. On the 16th Washington wrote in his diary:

"About 10 o'clock I bade adieu to Mount Vernon, to private life and domestic felicity and, with a mind oppressed with more anxious and painful sensations than I have words to express, set out for New York."

Practically every step of the way it was a triumphal procession. If his own sensations were painful those of the country were quite the opposite. Scarcely had he got outside of his own private estate than the processions and feasting began. Every child knows the story of that flower strewn journey and the inauguration that followed.

One of the prettiest displays was at Trenton. Here, where the great American general had achieved one of the most brilliant successes of the war, the women of New Jersey had erected a triumphal arch, bearing this inscription: "The Defender of the Mothers Will Be the Protector of the Daughters." Along the way mothers and daughters, dressed in white, strewed flowers in the path and sang a song written for the occasion.

The inauguration occurred on Thursday, April 13, the oath being administered by Chancellor Livingston on the outside balcony of the Federal hall.

WASHINGTON TAKING OATH OF OFFICE.

Broad and Wall streets, New York. The United States treasury now occupies this site, and on the broad portico of the building, at the exact spot where the Father of His Country took the oath as the first president, there now stands a noble statue of him. Within a stone's throw is the famous New York Stock Exchange.

The president was almost as reluctant to enter a second term as he had been the first. Jefferson, his secretary of state, and Hamilton, secretary of the treasury, joined in urging him to accept. Widely as the two were divided personally and politically, they were united on this point.

One additional embarrassment at about this time occurred in the death of a nephew, George A. Washington, who had been left in charge at Mount Vernon. The president feared that this would "cause my private concerns to suffer very much."

Nevertheless he accepted. In the election he received every vote of the electoral college, as before. By this time the seat of government had been moved to Philadelphia, where the second inaugural occurred.

During the second administration war was declared between England and France, and the president and his advisers were accused of siding with England. This was denounced by friends of France as the rankest ingratitude, in view of the services rendered by France to the American revolutionists. Out of this situation grew the bitterest attacks ever made on the first president.

Despite this temporary cloud, Washington was yet held in such esteem by the American people that he was being urged to accept a third term. He felt, however, that he had sacrificed enough and was determined to retire to a well earned repose at Mount Vernon. It was at this time that he issued his celebrated farewell address, which was published in the Philadelphia Advertiser in September, 1796.

While this was the beginning of the powerful tradition against a third term in the presidency, it is but just to say that Washington himself made no arguments against a third term. He explained that his reasons for withdrawing were personal. He would have taken such a step earlier, but was convinced that it would have been against public policy. Now, however, that difficulty had been removed, Washington says:

"I rejoice that the state of your concerns, external as well as internal, no longer renders the pursuit of inclination incompatible with the sentiment of duty or propriety and am persuaded, whatever partiality may be retained for my services, that in the present circumstances of our country you will not disapprove of my determination to retire."

As though the first president had a prophetic glimpse of the future, the argument of the farewell address was an argument for union and a warning against the perils of partisan division and passion. In the memorable closing paragraph he said:

"Though in reviewing the incidents of my administration I am unconscious of intentional error, I am nevertheless too sensible of my defects not to think it probable that I have committed many errors. Whatever they may be, I fervently beseech the Almighty to avert or mitigate the evils to which they may tend. I shall also carry with me the hope that my country will never cease to view them with indulgence and that, after forty-five years of my life dedicated to its service with uprightness, the faults of incompetent abilities will be consigned to oblivion, as myself must soon be to the mansions of rest."

Both his country and the world have certainly carried out this wish.

THE SHORTEST INAUGURAL.

Washington's Second Address Only 135 Words Long.

The first president was never given to much speaking. His first inaugural was, however, of average length. This was delivered in New York at the very beginning of our national life under the constitution, and the occasion demanded a more extended utterance than the Father of His Country was wont to give. The second inaugural, delivered four years later in Philadelphia, was more in line with his custom and was exceedingly brief, only 135 words long, in fact. It is believed to be the shortest ever delivered by an elected president. The address follows in full:

"Fellow Citizens—I am again called upon by the voice of my country to execute the functions of its chief magistrate. When the occasion proper for it shall arrive I shall endeavor to express the high sense I entertain of this distinguished honor and of the confidence which has been reposed in me by the people of united America."

"Previous to the execution of any official act of the president the constitution requires an oath of office. This oath I am now about to take and in your presence. That if it shall be found during my administration of the government I have in any instance violated willingly or knowingly the injunctions thereof I may (besides incurring constitutional punishment) be subject to the upbraidings of all who are now witnesses of the present solemn ceremony."

"GRAIN FIRM" PLANS TO WED

Announcement Reveals St. Louis

"Company" is a Woman.

TRADERS GET A SURPRISE.

St. Louis, Feb. 22.—The A. E. Haas Grain company is going to be married. This was the announcement that startled traders on the Merchants' exchange. The news was even more surprising because most of the traders had never known the A. E. Haas Grain company was a dark haired young woman of twenty-five years. The firm's out of town customers were also ignorant of this fact.

The formal announcement stated that Miss Alma E. Haas of 5948 Berlin avenue would be married at an early date to Dr. Maurice Vanderhack of St. Louis, Ill.

The date of the marriage will depend on the time it takes Miss Haas to dispose of the business of the A. E. Haas Grain company, which she has conducted for a year and a half, assisted by a large force of clerks and other employees. The firm's accounts include customers throughout the central west and south, and in Cuba and Mexico.

For five years Miss Haas was employed successively as stenographer, bookkeeper and cashier in the office of the F. P. Brockman Grain company. Brockman died in November, 1911, and Miss Haas bought the business with her savings. She could not join the Merchants' exchange, as 'change rules rigidly bar women from the floor in business hours. She conducted the business on the floor through men agents.

STEP NEARER GOOD ROADS

Missouri House Sends Highway Bill to Engrossment.

Jefferson City, Feb. 22.—The house sent to engrossment the Major good road bill, which provides for the creation of a state highway department, headed by a highway commissioner, with a deputy commissioner, an engineer, under him. The bill was lost on the first vote, but on a roll call the administration mustered enough votes to carry it.

The debate over the bill covered the entire subject of why Missouri does not have better roads. It evidenced a general desire from nearly every member, except some from the Ozark hills, for the state to take an active and energetic hand in bringing about better highways, but it also demonstrated that nearly every member had his own idea how the state should go about obtaining better highways.

A terrific arraignment of the justice of the peace court system in St. Louis and Kansas City was made by Senator Phillips in arguing before a committee for a municipal courts bill for St. Louis. "A large percentage of the St. Louis justices are damned crooks," Senator Phillips said.

Senator Phillips told how juries were fixed in the justice courts, and said persons attached to them had offered to fix juries for him.

Attorneys in Hyde Trial Wrangle.

Kansas City, Feb. 22.—The bitterest wrangle of the third trial of H. Clarke Hyde for the murder of Colonel Thomas H. Swope took place when attorneys for the defense complained that they had been denied the right to examine the Swope viscera through their own experts. John Lucas of the defense counsel made the assertion that the viscera had been "tampered with." A proposition made by Prosecutor Jacobs that the viscera be submitted for examination to a commission of experts to be appointed by the court was rejected by the defense after the court had offered to appoint such a commission.

RAVENWOOD.

The long looked for snow has come at last, and if the present (Friday noon) indications foretell the future results, we may yet have a winter of no small proportions. The snow will be fine on wheat and might improve the health of the country. Health is better among the small children, but there is a gripe on the older people, but no fatalities in this town or immediate vicinity.

We are expecting a building boom in Ravenwood when spring opens. J. J. Smith will put up a brick north of the postoffice, forty-eight foot front, and Roy Wells will put up a brick twenty-four foot front. Also several good dwellings are spoken of. W. A. Conn will change his dwelling from a one to a three-story. The first will be underground and the third above the present.

I hear of several Democrats that are willing to serve as township officials, but the Republicans are still very quiet.

Gulford News Items.

The farmers around the country of Gulford were all happy Friday over the beautiful snowfall. Not a grumble was heard among them and they spent their time figuring out how big the wheat crop would be and how much they thought they were going to clear from it, counting out expenses and so on. Oh, Friday was a great day here. It was a red letter day.

Mrs. W. H. Miller is recovering from a week's illness.

Miss Helene Young, who is attending the State Normal, went to Creston Saturday to visit over Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Young.
